

OPPORTUNITY GROUNDED

PHOTOS BY AP

The airline bailout should've come with consumer-friendly strings attached

CHRISTOPHER MUTHER

Before the airline industry went into its current coronavirus tailspin, a consumer group was calling on airlines to allow children to sit with their parents for no additional fees. Senate Minority Leader Chuck Infrastructure about the difficulties he and other disabled passengers face navigating narrow aisles and barely-there airplane bathrooms.

Most commercial airline passengers have a list as some of those requests become a reality as they asked the Trump administration for a $50 billion bailout. Nothing brings about accountability and change like a $50 billion carrot customers back. The FlyersRights requests include:

Limit ancillary fees: Cap fees for services such as checked baggage, seat reservations, and flight changes and cancellations to what is reasonable and proportional to the costs incurred by the air carrier. Globally, airlines made $109.5 billion in ancillary fees in 2019.

Restore the rights of

Tail fins of recently landed Delta Air Lines sit parked at Pinal Airpark on March 18 in Red Rock, Ariz., as many passenger planes are being kept at the facility as airlines have cut back on service because of the coronavirus pandemic

cvd_458

Clipped By:
relianceenwerem
Mar 30, 2026

Copyright © 2026 Newspapers.com. All Rights Reserved.